

FED Lunch Research Series VI

The Cosmopolitan Cause of Curriculum Studies

William F. Pinar

Professor and Canada Research Chair, Curriculum Studies,
University of British Columbia

Life Time Achievement Award recipient, American Educational Research Association (AERA)

Founder of the International Association for the Advancement of Curriculum Studies (IAACS)

Founder of the Journal of Curriculum Theorizing

Founder of the Bergamo Conference on Curriculum Theory and Classroom Practice

Date: Friday 6 June 2014

Time: 13:00-14:00 (Light Lunch begins at 12:30)

Venue: J560, Silver Jubilee Building, University of Macau

Audience: FED academic staff and students/wider campus community

This paper addresses the cosmopolitan cause at the core of curriculum studies, referencing several concepts and countries depicted in the 2nd edition of the International Handbook of Curriculum Research. To contradict the presentism of the current historical conjuncture Pinar suggests "becoming historical" through internationalization to encourage non-coincidence with the current regimes of universalization and homogenization.

For Inquiries, email Dr. Wu, Jinting through wujinting@umac.mo