The FED Lunch Research Series 10 titled “Early Identification and Prevention of Difficulties in Learning to Read - a Global Perspective” given by Prof. Heikki LYYTINEN was successfully held on 18 November 2015. Prof. Heikki LYYTINEN is a renowned professor in the field of psychophysiology, developmental neuropsychology and dyslexia. He is in the Department of Psychology in University of Jyväskylä, Finland. Prof. Heikki LYYTINEN is also appointed as UNESCO Professor by the University of Jyväskylä to work for the global project “UNESCO Chair on Inclusive Literacy Learning for All”.

During the seminar, Prof. Heikki LYYTINEN delivered an exciting presentation of the outcome of his research team. He shared the process of data collection from early age to puberty in the Jyväskylä Longitudinal study of Dyslexia (JLD) and summarized the highlights of the JLD. Additionally, Prof. Heikki LYYTINEN provided great amount information of the Graphogame (GG) technology using a global perspective, which the Graphogame (GG) technology is mainly meant to help children at risk to learn the basic reading skill before they can encounter and experience failure and it is implemented to help the children in more than 10 languages nowadays.