

THE U.S. REBALANCE TO ASIA, AND WHAT IT MEANS FOR HONG KONG AND MACAU

Recognizing that America's future prosperity and security are intertwined with Asia, President Barack Obama has made a strategic commitment to rebalance the United States' level of engagement with Asia. At this event, U.S. Deputy Consul General for Hong Kong and Macau Tom Cooney looks forward to the opportunity to discuss the ongoing U.S. rebalance to Asia, including the importance of Hong Kong and Macau to this policy.

Speaker: Tom Cooney

Deputy Consul General of the United States of America to Hong Kong and Macau

Tom Cooney's Foreign Service career began in Hong Kong in 1995. On August 4, 2013, he returned to Hong Kong as the U.S. Deputy Consul General to Hong Kong and Macau. Most recently, he had served for two years as the State Department's Foreign Policy Advisor to the Commanding General of U.S. Army, Pacific Command, in Honolulu, Hawaii.
